1. The construction work on the runway at the Jueterbog-Altes Lager (N 52E 69) airfield was nearing completion. It is about 60 meters wide. Work on the taxiway, which extended from the eastern end of the runway to the hangars in the north, was still in progress. Only one plane, the type of which could not be determined, was standing at the field. There were still electric light poles along the runway. Men and women workers went from an emergency train stop to the construction site at 8 p.m. Work was probably being done in three shifts. *
